MALTING BARLEY SITUATION
ONLY TEMPORARY

The present price system whereby producers of feed barleys receive the same quotations for all grades of barley, is a temporary malting barley, is temporary and concerns this year's crop. In a letter from the Hon. Minister of Agriculture, which was read at a special meeting of the Marketing Board of the Malting Barley and Linseed Flax Committee held in Winnipeg on November 16th, under the chairmanship of Mr. J. H. McCreary, was stated: "This is only a temporary thing having to do with this year's crop. It will be made permanent as soon as the market for the next crop that farmers cannot rely upon this price for any barley other than malting barley is ascertained." He reviewed the present barley situation, and was pleased to have the assurance that the situation was temporary and that farmers will be informed officially to this effect. He stated that the shortage of feed has prevented the export of malting barley, farmers would be well advised to at least produce a malting variety for which malting premiums

UNION—HOW?

"The only defense against atomic bombs is the creation of a world in which no one has the slightest desire to drop atomic bombs on anyone else." This statement appears in a National News Letter by Stephen King, Jr., condensed in the November issue of Reader's Digest. No truer, more profound or clearer statement on the question has been made.

But what of the conclusion given—"World Government or World Destruction?" Would putting the nations under world government give them less desire to drop bombs on each other than they had before? Has any other form of formal union—marriage—articles of incorpora-dominion—made people any less self-willed and antagonistic?

If married people never threw plates at each other—if workers and employers did not pull punches—any new collapse of strikes and lockouts—if we were not now upon the verge of a new conflict over the control of industry—we might think that a union of the nations would really unite them. But we find the answer: to atomic bombs.

Until we find the answer to divorce, however, to bitterness in industry and to mud-slinging in Parliament, a proposal for world government just dodges the question. The real question is not "Union Now" but union—how?

The tragedy is that this question has been answered and goes unrecognized. Men have found that the divorce of industry and nation, friction in industry and national disagreement. They have found that it when together they turn to God and find a sudden unexpected freedom from the selfishness

Lincoln was right. A nation cannot exist half free and half slave. And the London Conference has just shown that neither can a world. But nations and the world can together find freedom from fear, hate and greed which cause them to fly at each others throats. Men who, under God, have found this real unity, can make their example so revolutionary and appealing that it sweeps across the world. Then no one will want to drag humanity on anyone else. Any lesser solution is and will always remain a Utopian dream.

Following nearly two weeks of mild weather, the wind swung to the north and on Friday morning last. Scattered light snow and snow flurries were experienced throughout the day, but the fall was not very heavy. A cold front, with a temperature of two degrees above zero, ushered in Saturday morning. However, the weather cleared and the day was easier. Low frosts and cold weather continued on Sunday and Monday, but on Tuesday the sun came out and the temperature began to rise, reaching a high of 24 above in a bright sunshine.

RUSH OF TOURISTS HUNTERS TO ALBERTA

Hunters and tourists from the United States will pour into Alberta and other parts of Canada in the next five years.

That opinion has been expressed to officials of the Alberta Motor Association by Michael Lerner, of New York City and Miami, Florida, who was in the province while on a big game shooting trip to Jasper National Park. The same belief also was expressed by Mrs. Lerner. Both Thousands of people are waiting to travel, as there has been a pent-up demand during the war years," said Mr. Lerner.

There will not be tourist facilities in Europe for some time, following the devastation caused by war, while the food problem in Europe is another factor that will discourage travel to European countries.

These different factors combine to show that Alberta can expect a big volume of tourists in the new year and for the next few years. It has scenic attractions that are unsurpassed and hunting that ranks with
